DFW International Airport Statement On U.S. Department of Transportation Decision Regarding New Service to China

“We are naturally disappointed that American Airlines did not win the route, and we still believe their application is strong. Trade between China and North Texas continues to grow and this region needs this service in the future. We will continue to work with American to explore new international routes from DFW and hope to play an instrumental role in the upcoming bilateral talks between the U.S. and China.”
